Lucien Foort

Being born within a musical melting pot and learning his abc's alongside taking music lessons, didn't give him an opportunity to escape his natural born talent. Rotterdam based dj and producer Lucien Foort studied saxophone and orchestra for eight years. Growing into adolescence, he moved on to rock, rap and rave, playing in different bands and experimenting with different music genres.

In 1995, Lucien takes up deejaying and develops his own signature style. In 1998 his more progressive productions under the moniker "Funk Function" (the Empress series) and his "Dutch Liquid" productions (with Ron Matser) find their way into the record crates of the high and mighty of the dance scene, namely Carl Cox, Roger Sanchez, Sasha and John Digweed.

Lucien's career speeds up with worldwide DJ residencies...
